INTRODUCTION BY TIM PASSMORE

As PCC I am able to commission services which contribute to securing crime and disorder reduction and support victims. Since my election in November 2012 I have commissioned grants worth nearly £2.8 million, nearly £1m of which has been spent to support crime and disorder reduction initiatives. In 2014/15, I commissioned nearly £1.3m in grants for victims services and crime and disorder reduction.

It is of course important that these services provide value for money as well as support victims or reduce crime and disorder. I require all grant recipients to provide monitoring information which is analysed to ensure my commissioned services provide the best possible outcomes.

I am proud to have worked with the Voluntary Community and Social Enterprise (VCSE) sector to deliver a wide range of quality and innovative services. This report evidences the impact of my commissioning in 2014/15 and is based on the monitoring information provided by grant recipients. A list of all grants I have awarded is provided in Appendix A.

In the period to April 2014 I utilised Crime and Disorder Reduction grants to support the delivery of the Suffolk Police and Crime Plan objectives. In April 2014, I established my Safer Suffolk Fund. Administered by Suffolk Community Foundation, the Safer Suffolk Fund enables a fund of £300,000 to be used to support applications for between £500 and £20,000 of funding. Grants are recommended for funding by a Panel which includes representatives from my office and District and Borough Councils around Suffolk.

In October 2014, I assumed responsibility for the commissioning of victims' services. I have been uncompromising in my view that supporting victims of domestic abuse is a significant priority. A key aim is to deliver effective victims' services to all Suffolk victims of crime according to their needs and regardless of their geographic location or any other factor.

All of the commissioning referred to above aligns with the ambitions in my Police and Crime Plan which includes key objectives to prevent and reduce crime and disorder and to support victims and vulnerable people.

SETTING THE SCENE ON COMMISSIONING

The Police and Crime Commissioner, in accordance with the provisions in the Anti-Social Behaviour, Crime and Policing Act 2014, can commission services that:

- secure, or contribute to securing, crime and disorder reduction in Suffolk;
- are intended to help victims or witnesses of, or other persons affected by, offences and anti-social behaviour.

The PCC's victims commissioning approach prioritises grant applications which:

- fulfil the requirement to provide services for victims who are entitled to enhanced services, and
- address gaps in service provision.

Decisions on commissioning are made on the basis of those applications which are considered to have the greatest likelihood of delivering the best possible outcome, in terms of helping victims to cope and recover from their experience. The application process takes into account the following:

- Innovation - an innovative approach to delivering victims' services;
- Working in partnership/collaboration - working in partnership or collaboration with one or more additional victims' services providers;
- Hard to reach/hear groups – services that are aimed at supporting victims from hard to reach/hear groups;
- Gaps in services – services that will address an unmet need/gap in services.

All grant funding decisions are published on the PCC's website, including details of the service being funded, how much the grant is for and what outcomes are intended.

Each grant recipient receives clear conditions of award which includes the conditions placed on the organisation by the Office of the PCC, including the monitoring requirements. Where appropriate, grant recipients are also required to report on progress to the Police and Crime Commissioner's public Accountability and Performance Panel.

HOW THE FUNDING HAS BEEN USED

Grants have been distributed for activities across Suffolk in 2014/15 including £913,000 (70%) for projects delivering countywide or in more than one district. Significant grant funding has been allocated to programmes specifically delivering in the Waveney (£161,000) and Ipswich (£138,000) areas to provide specialist support services to victims of domestic violence and abuse, deliver diversionary activities for young people and to help create a safer night time economy.

The seventy grants awarded in 2014/15 all contributed to delivering the objectives in the Police and Crime Plan. Over half (54%) of grants commissioned focussed on dealing with domestic and sexual abuse, 17% of grants commissioned addressed the damaging effects of drugs and alcohol on lives and crime levels and helped create a safer night time economy. A further 14% of all grants commissioned supported community safety and crime prevention activity including reducing anti-social behaviour.

Services commissioned have directly supported over 4,000 victims and provided 3,370 counselling sessions to help victims cope and recover. Within the areas of domestic and sexual abuse and services to victims, nearly quarter of a million pounds (£249,000) was directed to programmes that included the delivery of counselling. An additional £340,000 was allocated to programmes delivering wider advice, guidance and support to help victims of domestic and sexual abuse cope and recover.

SUPPORTING VICTIMS AND PREVENTING CRIME

Throughout 2014/15 the PCC has provided grant funding to organisations across Suffolk. The following two sections use monitoring information to provide an overview of the range of services commissioned to prevent and reduce crime and to support victims, helping them to cope and recover.

Supporting young people

Grants totalling £411,000 have been awarded to programmes involving young people. Awards for counselling and support to children and young people who are victims of abuse were made to Anglia Care Trust, Fresh Start New Beginnings, Lighthouse Women's Aid, The Ferns Sexual Assault Referral Centre (SARC) and Victim Support.

A range of diversionary activities which supported the Police and Crime Plan objectives to reduce anti-social behaviour; develop young people and families; and support early intervention to divert young people from the criminal justice system, have been funded. Funding recipients included: Red Rose Chain, Access Community Trust, Catch 22 Suffolk Positive Futures, Ormiston Families, Rotary Youth Leadership Awards, Suffolk Coastal and Waveney Community Safety Partnerships, Suffolk Youth Offending Service and Public Health.

Suffolk Positive Futures

Suffolk Positive Futures were commissioned to provide a sports based inclusion project using sport and leisure activities to engage with young people aged 10-19 throughout the County. During 2014/15 Suffolk Positive Futures worked with 1,658 young people (396 of whom were new to the project), delivered 903 activity sessions and 1,324 hours of sessions and included 17 volunteers in the delivery of its service. The service has always had a strong focus in Ipswich and Lowestoft but, with the help of the PCC grant, the service has been able to forge a new partnership with Abbeycroft Leisure to deliver interventions and projects in Newmarket, Forest Heath and Brandon. New schemes have also been set up in Leiston, Hadleigh, Bury St Edmunds and three in Ipswich. The service has worked to upskill young vulnerable people with thirty young people who were not engaged in education or excluded from mainstream school supported to work towards a recognised qualification. Qualifications achieved included Sports Leaders Awards and sports coaching and teamwork awards.

"The opportunities I was given through working with the Youth Offending Service and Positive Futures allowed me to turn the mistakes I had made into something positive. My attendance with Kick Smart and the Sports Leaders Award gave me the confidence boost I needed and made me realise I had the skills needed to work in this field. This led to me getting a Sports Coach job at Hopton Holiday Village and since being there, I have trained to become a Lifeguard too"

Michael Clough – Attendee of the project.

KEEPING OUR COMMUNITIES SAFE

Many of the Crime and Disorder Reduction grants awarded in 2014/15 supported the PCC's commitment to crime prevention and community safety activities, not least the work with young people outlined above. Other examples include a grant to New Orford Town Trust to improve the CCTV at Orford Quay, a grant to Felixstowe Volunteer Coast Patrol Rescue Service and funding for improved Neighbourhood Watch signage across Suffolk. The Safer Suffolk Fund supported Castle Community Radio to provide twice monthly policing broadcasts and Red Rose Chain workshops educating 12-15 year olds on the reasons not to commit crime.

Hate crime

The PCC commissioned Victim Support on behalf of the Suffolk Hate Crime Partnership to support victims of hate crime. The Partnership works with voluntary organisations within Suffolk communities to increase understanding of hate crime, build confidence to increase reporting and provide support for those affected. During the year the Partnership has worked with and alongside the Suffolk Hate Crime Service, Suffolk Constabulary and Suffolk County Council.

With the support of the funding the partnership has grown to encompass 76 organisations. Training was developed and delivered to 22 additional further hate crime responders from a range of organisations bringing the overall total to 68 active supporters.

The Partnership received 152 referrals to the co-ordinator, 124 needs assessments were undertaken. 78 victims received emotional support, advocacy, practical support and information, signposting or active referrals to other organisations resulting in better ability to cope and recover from the hate crime. 20 third party reports were made during the year. 68% of the service users who completed surveys (42) said that the service had led to greater satisfaction with the police and other Criminal Justice Service agencies.

The PCC also supports positive action to help create a safer environment for road users. In 2014/15 Suffolk RoSPA Advanced Motorcyclists (SRAM) were funded to promote motorcycle safety through the use of CRASH cards. Funding also enabled Babergh West Community Speedwatch and Needham Market Speedwatch to train new volunteers and purchase equipment enabling them to successfully operate to reduce speeding in villages.

Babergh Streetwatch

Funding was provided at the end of the 2013/14 financial year to support Babergh Streetwatch. Streetwatch uses a regulated model for civilian street patrols, independent but working in partnership with the police. It addresses the disproportionate fear of crime and relieves pressure on the police from low level community issues, increasing community empowerment and raising public confidence.

The Babergh Streetwatch group consists of 35 members with each member carrying out at least two hours patrolling per month focussing on parks, car parks and areas of known anti-social behaviour (ASB) as well as looking at appropriate parking near shops and schools.

Advice was given to shops at Halloween regarding the selling of eggs to young people and over the Christmas period advising members of the public about purse thefts. The work Streetwatch do is recognised locally and they won the Babergh Community Awards group category in 2014/15.

The group reports that: "We have found that the presence of volunteers in their hi-vis jackets has had an impact on ASB and crime just by them being present, visible and also engaging with members of the public and listening to their concerns."

CREATING A SAFER NIGHT-TIME ECONOMY

In order to create a safer night-time economy, the PCC has awarded funding to a number of initiatives. Following a successful evaluation of the new scheme, Ipswich Taxi Marshals received a contribution of £5,000 in the 2014/15 period to help prevent anti-social behaviour and public disorder in taxi ranks. The service provided by Taxi Marshals creates a safer environment for users of the night-time economy, improves health and safety of pedestrians and provides reassurance to vulnerable people.

An award of £5,000 during 2014/15 helped to re-invigorate the Best Bar None scheme which is aimed at promoting responsible management and operation of alcohol licensed premises. This award supports Ipswich Central, Ipswich Borough Council and the Constabulary in their excellent and innovative work to reduce alcohol-related crime and disorder.

Town Pastors

In 2014/15, the PCC awarded £47,000 towards Town Pastor schemes in Suffolk. As independent volunteers, Town Pastors show concern and offer assistance where appropriate in a non-judgmental and non-confrontational manner by listening, caring for and helping their community, and in particular young and vulnerable people on the streets of Suffolk towns during Friday and Saturday nights and during Latitude Festival.

It is recognised that Town Pastors foster good relationships between the public, the police, taxi drivers, door staff, other voluntary agencies and local authorities. "They are an excellent example of partnership working extending beyond the statutory agencies." (Suffolk Town Pastors Countywide Evaluation 2013 p14).

Town Pastors play a significant part in the reduction and prevention of crime by: diffusing potentially aggressive situations; ensuring the personal safety and wellbeing of people by ensuring people get safely to their transport, reunite with friends or are walked home; reducing risk of injury by removing bottles and glasses from the streets and improving the atmosphere by being a friendly, non-threatening presence.

In 2014/15 Town Pastors were involved in 23,000 'interventions' of this kind, directly preventing and reducing crime on 258 occasions and contributing over 10,000 hours of time. In recognition of the above, Town Pastors have undoubtedly had a positive effect on the resources of Police, NHS and Criminal Justice System.

"Town Pastors play a vital role in supporting the nighttime economy. We appreciate their dedication to turn out in all weathers and to help people of all ages that could become victims of crime." (Suffolk Town Pastors Countywide Evaluation 2013 p13)

MAKING SUFFOLK A SAFER PLACE FOR VICTIMS AND VULNERABLE PEOPLE

Serious sexual offences and domestic abuse

The PCC is committed to tackling sexual and domestic abuse. Services focused on these crime types which cause significant harm received grants of £708,000 in 2014/15. While there are specific services that support victims of sexual abuse and victims of domestic abuse, some people are victims of both crimes. Some services provide for both e.g. the sexual elements of domestic abuse might be supported by services for victims of rape and sexual offences. Conversely, domestic abuse service providers delivering counselling to support domestic abuse victims may also deal with the trauma caused by rape and sexual offences.

Tackling sexual offences

Grants worth £198,000 have been used to directly support victims of serious sexual offences. These grants were awarded across a range of organisations including the Sexual Assault and Referral Centre (SARC), Suffolk Rape Crisis, Mentis Tree (Acorn Counselling), Survivors in Transition, Fresh Start-new beginnings and Butterfly Community Interest Company. Support was also provided to improve video links to court enabling victims of sexual offences to feel more at ease when giving evidence.

Supporting adults who were victims of childhood sexual abuse

The PCC provided funding to Survivors In Transition, a charity set up to support adults who have been victims of sexual abuse in their childhood. The funding has enabled the service to develop its capacity and respond much more effectively to growing demand and increase its service offer. Key achievements include: better coordinated referrals from partners, additional training for volunteers and increased opening hours.

During the funding period the service supported over 800 people with 190 group sessions (697 attendees) and 520 'one to one' sessions. This work has led to the following outcomes for victims:

- Increased self-esteem and confidence: 85% of survivors worked with experienced at least a 60% increase in self-esteem;
- Improved understanding of the abuse they have experienced: 70% of survivors who accessed support said that they had a better understanding of the way in which the abuse they experienced as a child affected them as adults and 85% felt better able to manage day to day effects;

- Improved life chances leading to healthier and safer future relationships: 85% of service users saw an increase across all 10 areas of the 'outcome star' such as improved ability to manage mental health (74%), reduction in social isolation and improved social networks and support (65%), decreased addictive behaviour (77%) and improved personal safety (70%). In addition to this 24% of service users reported getting back into employment or education.

Of those completing feedback 92% said they were satisfied or extremely satisfied with the service and 80% of attendees felt they have met or surpassed their key objective for accessing the service.

Supporting children who are victims of sexual abuse

Suffolk SARC: 3D Pain and Anxiety Distraction System for Child Victims

The PCC secured funding from the Ministry of Justice to support the Suffolk Sexual Assault Referral Centre to purchase a 3D Pain and Anxiety Distraction System for child victims to occupy and distract children, who have suffered sexual offences, and to help them engage with medical examination process. The 3D Pain and Anxiety Distraction System was installed on the 3 December 2014. Since that date an increasing number of under 13 year olds have used the system. It is also used by older children and children who have mental health issues. The system has also been used with some adult cases who experience high anxiety levels as the calming music helps them cope.

"The new distraction system worked brilliantly. It enabled children who were initially quite reluctant and apprehensive about the examination to completely relax and play. They worked the controls for the distraction system and laughed and chatted whilst I carried out the examination. The children hardly appeared to notice what I was doing at the other end of the examination couch and some of them just wanted to continue playing with the distraction system even when the examination was over. The overall effect was incredibly calming and soothing to both children and their parents. Every centre which examines children should have one."

Lucy Love Clinical Director G4S Forensic Medical Services

Comments made by the children who have used it have been "It's cool" "it's magic". The parents also participate whilst supporting their children which provides a focal point of conversation. "It's an amazing facility" one parent said.

Fresh Start - new beginnings

Fresh Start – new beginnings were provided with funding to deliver therapeutic support to children who are victims of sexual abuse. The funding supported 44 young people and delivered over 600 hours of therapeutic sessions including group programmes designed for child victims of sexual abuse and their parents to improve their emotional and psychological wellbeing following the trauma they had suffered.

The work has resulted in some notable successes for victims and their families:

- 100% of parents felt the groups had helped them understand their child's reactions and behaviours as a result of the abuse;
- 100% of parents felt it was easier talking about what happened having attended the group;
- 50% of young people felt they understood their own reactions and behaviours as a result of the abuse.

Comments from people who have been supported by the service include:

"I have met some incredible people who have understood me and given me a positive outlook for the future as before I could not see things getting better."

"I felt so ashamed and lost all my confidence and trust. I did not think I could live through it, the flashbacks wouldn't go away. I felt better when I started getting help I started building that confidence back up."

TACKLING DOMESTIC ABUSE

The PCC has been uncompromising in his view that domestic abuse is a key priority and victims should be supported. It is therefore no surprise that £510,580 of the funding which has been allocated has been directed to services and forums that provide support, information and guidance to victims of domestic abuse. The service providers the PCC has supported to deliver services to victims of domestic abuse extend across the county and include Lighthouse Women's Aid, Compassion, Waveney Domestic Violence and Abuse Forum, Anglia Care Trust, PHOEBE and Victim Support.

In 2014 two significant issues arose from the PCC's discussions with partners. The first was that despite the number of service providers reporting increased demand, there appeared to be a lack of evidence about victim's perceptions of the services available.

The second issue was that both Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) and the Campaign for Action Against Domestic Abuse (CAADA – now SafeLives) reported on evidence that the number of Independent Domestic Violence Advisors in Suffolk was woefully short of what was needed.

In response University Campus Suffolk (UCS) were commissioned in March 2014 to research the perceptions of victims of domestic abuse and in July 2014 the PCC advertised for applications to bid for delivering an Independent Domestic Violence Advisor (IDVA) service for Suffolk. In October 2014, Lighthouse Women's Aid was successful in receiving a three year grant award to deliver an IDVA service in Suffolk, and improve capacity to support victims of domestic abuse. The service opened in February 2015.

The victim's voice

University Campus Suffolk were commissioned research to better understand the perceptions of victims of domestic abuse. The research findings and recommendations provided evidence of where victims felt supported and unsupported by agencies whose role is to protect and help them. The PCC thanks those victims who shared their views and experiences. These experiences have provided recommendations which are a catalyst for all service providers in Suffolk to consider improvements which can be made.

The research findings were published in March 2015 and throughout Spring 2015, the PCC has discussed the research outcomes with, amongst others, Suffolk Public Sector Leaders, the Norfolk and Suffolk Criminal Justice Board and the Countywide Domestic Abuse Partnership.

The PCC asked the Chief Constable to develop an action plan regarding the improvements the Constabulary can make and to liaise with statutory and voluntary organisations in Suffolk to support a countywide response to the report and improve the services to victims.

Supporting male victims of domestic abuse

Anglia Care Trust (ACT) was funded to offer male victims of domestic abuse advice and guidance sessions. This has enabled their Specialist Male Victims support worker to increase the number of service users supported by increasing the availability of support hours. 32 male victims were supported through the project in 2014/15 and all confirmed that, following the support, they had increased self-esteem and improved life chances leading to healthier and safer future relationships. In addition, 36 of the service users were referred from partners, demonstrating good multi agency support.

The majority of requests for support initially centred on practical issues such as child access and specialist legal advice. Detailed disclosures relating to the domestic abuse experienced were often made once trust was established between the worker and the victim. This enabled the male victim worker to provide help and emotional support to cope and recover. This service has been a great achievement as historically male victims can be reluctant to ask for help.

"The support from ACT was second to none. I was supported from the beginning to end of the whole drama of going through court. Me and my boys feel safe and are in a happier position in life."

Waveney Domestic Violence and Abuse Forum

Waveney Domestic Violence and Abuse Forum comprises over 70 partnership agencies from both the statutory and voluntary sector and works to reduce and prevent domestic abuse.

Grants from the PCC have been used to build capability and capacity and respond to increasing levels of unmet demand. A part time co-ordinator was funded to ensure the forum continued its work in awareness raising and signposting to advice and information, and supported the delivery of training and programmes including:

- The Caring Dads programme, set up to enhance the safety and wellbeing of children, was delivered to 26 fathers resulting in positive and beneficial differences for the families (and 72 children) involved. The Waveney Caring Dads programme has been nominated for accreditation.

"It is an excellent programme which has changed my life as a parent and I don't feel I would have a family without doing this programme."

"The most clear evidence of positive change came from the children themselves who reported feeling happier about things in general, saying that fighting and shouting had stopped. Their views were reflected in improvements in school and reported growth in confidence and self-esteem by other professionals." Social Services Professional

- Trauma Therapy delivered 70 sessions of support. Evaluation indicated positive changes in clients including the ability to manage when things went wrong and being in control of emotions.

"I had hit a brick wall. Now I am looking towards my future & working towards starting up my own business!"

"Without you ladies at the domestic abuse forum, none of this would have been possible. Thank you."

- Rape Crisis Counselling delivered over 150 hours of counselling to 13 victims. Counselling gave many victims more confidence and enabled 3 clients to report their crimes to the Police for the first time.

"I would of never of had the courage to of gone to the police. With your help and support I know I can do this."

"I have never opened up to anyone about my past. It helped me leave my abusive relationship with my partner of 10 years. [Name of the counsellor] has helped to like myself and have the confidence to change."

The forum is working hard to ensure the sustainability of the service as well as using their experience to develop services for victims of domestic abuse across Suffolk.

CONTINUING TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

The PCC's intention is to build on commissioning thus far and continue to support victims of crime to cope and recover from their experiences. Two significant commitments for 2015/16 are the Independent Domestic Violence Advisor (IDVA) Service (commissioned through Lighthouse Women's Aid) and the Victim Assessment and Referral Service (commissioned through Victim Support).

The IDVA service is a flagship service to support high risk victims of domestic abuse. The IDVA service has been in place since February 2015 and supports victims of domestic abuse with safety planning and assessments to keep them safe. The service works round the clock and supports victims through the criminal justice process.

To support all victims of crime, the Victim Assessment and Referral Service enables any victim of crime to be referred by the police or to self-refer for a needs assessment. Those who have been victims of serious crime, those who are vulnerable and those victims who are persistently targeted are entitled to an enhanced service.

The PCC recognises the innovation offered by Restorative Justice (RJ) and the evidence that it is a technique that can support victims to cope and recover. RJ is the process that supports those harmed by crime, and those responsible for the harm, to communicate. This enables everyone affected by a particular incident to play a part in repairing the harm and finding a positive way forward.

However, Restorative Justice is not widely used or understood. The PCC has been awarded funding by the Ministry of Justice to support the use of RJ in Suffolk and has collaborated with the Norfolk PCC to establish a Suffolk and Norfolk Victim Led RJ Hub. The RJ Hub has been funded to develop the understanding and use of RJ in Suffolk and support victims who would like to use RJ.

Applications for funding

The PCC is keen that funding supports applications from all over Suffolk. If you are interested in applying to the Safer Suffolk Fund details of the criteria and application process can be found at:
